

Journal Notes

Northwest Passage

- * Europeans wanted spices, tea, & silk from Asia.
- * Europe wanted to find a shorter route to Asia
- * This quicker water-route to Asia was called the "Northwest Passage"

Columbia Exchange

• Positive Consequences (+)

- * Many American crops became part of the European diet.
- * Brought the world closer together
- * Potatoes & corn were the greatest impact to feed the starved.

• Negative Consequences (-)

- * Diseases killed many Native Americans

Journal Notes

14.

Rival Countries

- * Rivalry (competition) between European countries
 - France, England, Spain, & the Dutch
- * All countries wanted to claim land, find riches, and gain power
- * 3 G's - Gold, God, & Glory

The Columbian Exchange

Complete the definition below. Then, fill in the missing information in the chart. Use colored pencils to color the maps.

The Columbian Exchange is the greatest exchange between the Eastern & Western hemispheres that included people, plants, animals, and diseases

THE COLUMBIAN EXCHANGE

From the Americas to Europe	From Europe to the Americas

Plants Corn, tomatoes, potatoes, pumpkins, squash, tobacco, beans, peppers, cacao	Bananas, grapes, citrus fruits, coffee beans, olives, onion, wheat, rice, oats...
Animals Turkey, llamas	Cattle, sheep, pigs, horses...
Other None	Diseases: smallpox, influenza, measles, malaria, whooping cough.

This important date in American history is brought to you by
